

The Mediation Advocate: Ethical Duties and Pitfalls

By Philip Meldman, Esq.

Veteran mediator presents an interactive program which explores the ethical duties of the attorney advocate in mediation and critical mistakes to avoid poisoning the settlement well. Does an attorney have a duty to select the right mediator? Does an attorney have a duty to prepare the client for the mediation process? Are the goals of the attorney and client compatible? Does an attorney have a duty to adequately prepare the case for mediation. This is an advanced mediation program to provide tools for effective, ethical advocacy, including a strategic mediation checklist.

Qualifies for 1.0 hour of ethics MCLE credit. The program lasts an hour, including Q & A and can be arranged at a lunch gathering or other time convenient for you.

To schedule an MCLE, please contact my MCLE coordinator, Haward Cho, at (213) 683-1600 or haward@adrservices.org.
